

Static and dynamic characteristics as well as time response of measurement systems, error and uncertainty analysis, analog and digital signal conditioning, basics of data acquisition systems, transducers of thermal, mechanical, and optical systems, measurement systems design.