

Biomedical Transducer and telemetry lab

Experiments on different transducers principles, construction and applications, deflection bridges, analog to digital conversion. Detection, conversion and transmission of various physiological parameters using different types of modulation techniques such as amplitude modulation and frequency modulation.

